AT THE MAJESTIC

If you think William Farnum was a real fighter in "The Spoilers," wait until you see him in "The End of the Trail" at the Majestic next Wednesday, a Fox feature which will be shown with the Billie Burke serial. Battling Bill is seen in the great rugged northwest and assumes the kind of type he has always enjoyed keenly. He is a trapper and he spends a long time trying to find a certain individual, Devil Cabot by name. He finds him at last. You may imagine the scene in the barroom when these two gladiators eye each other. The crowd gets out and leaves the floor to them. Bill does the rest.

An unusually strong cast will be seen in support of Edmund Breese, the eminent dramatic actor, when "The Weakness of Strength," the newest Popular Plays and Players release on the Metro program, comes to the Majestic theatre next Sunday. Clifford Bruce, himself a star and the leading man in many important stage and screen productions, has the part of "Bill Jackson," the rival and sworn enemy of "Dan Gaylor," the character portrayed by Mr. Breese. Ormi Hawley, famous as the "Belle of the Navy" and long the most popular star of the Lubin studios, has the leading female role, while Evelyn Brent, one of the most popular young actresses on the screen, who has been seen with Mr. Breese in most of his recent offerings on the Metro program, has the ingenue part. Others in the cast are Little Florence Moore and Clifford B. Gray.

AT SPENCER SQUARE

Do you believe in fairies? When Maude Adams asked that question at the end of "Peter Pan," every man, woman and child in the theater invariably joined in the chorus of affirmatives. Now Marguerite Clark, herself starred by the Famous Players in a delightful romance that answers this question better than any verbal reply could. Strangely enough, it is only the little Lady Eileen who believes in fairies at the beginning of the story. The others about her are entirely too practical for that, but after we have seen the people of elf-land lead the trusting little girl to her true lover, and destroy the impostor who attempted to get possession of her fortune, there can be no doubt at all that the fairies reward our faith in them. The irresistible Marguerite Clark makes of "Little Lady Eileen" an exquisite, mischievous, charming characterization, that will live in your memory as long as have the fairy tales your mother told. "Lady Eileen" is to be seen at the Spencer Square Sunday and Monday.

AT THE COLUMBIA

As the feature of tomorrow's bill Harry Girard offers "The Luck of a Totem," with Stella Watts. The story of the act is interesting. The sheriff adopts his partner's daughter, bringing her up in the belief that she is his child. The miners, headed by Frenchy, a half breed, demand her marriage to one of them. The sheriff tells them that she is not his daughter. Frenchy tells the girl and makes her believe she is dishonored through living with her adopted father. The girl

WITH "THE ELOPERS"

Ward DeWolf is leading man with the company which will appear at the Illinois theatre one week from tomorrow in "The Elopers," a musical comedy, first produced and popularized as one of the shows brought out by the La Salle theatre, Chicago. It is announced there are 50 people in the company to be seen here.

decides to leave the camp forever, but is stopped by the sheriff, who realizes his love for her, forces an explanation which is overheard by the half breed, who tries to kill the sheriff, but meets with a just reward for his treachery. John Geiger, who is both an able violinist and a clever comedian, will be one of the attractions. Geiger knows how to play real music which he does with much facility and then he turns around and plays tricks on his fiddle that cause his auditors much glee. Sketch entitled "The Cop," a comedy of the system, will furnish the laughs for the coming bill. Flo Adler and boys will please. Miss Adler is well known in the tri-cities and will no doubt be welcomed by her many friends. She carries three boys with her, singing many popular songs. Marble Gems, introducing life reproductions of marble classics, will complete the bill. Coming Thursday Manager Blanchard has booked Bruce Buffett & Co. in "Cornered by Wireless," an act every one should see, and other feature acts.
